FOR DEMOCRATIC SUCCESS.

Voters Must be Organized—The Vast Army of Republicans in Pennsylvania Does Not Guarantee Success in a Battle.

If the Democrats of Pennsylvania reach the goal of their ambition, or come near it, next November, it will be the result of hard and consistent work. The largest army is not always the victor in a battle. Triumph attends those who properly align their forces and who take advantage of the weak places in the opposition lines. There is a big army of Democrats in Pennsylvania, and this army needs organization, not from the top down, but from the bottom up. This army must be seasoned and drilled. The raw recruits must be taught the rudiments, and every individual must know his place and be prepared to do his full duty. The officers in command may be ever so well skilled, but they need a compact army behind them.

It is evident, therefore, that the place to begin organization is among the individual voters. They must be afforded an opportunity to rally together, and not left by themselves to act individually, regardless of the consequences. The leaders are convinced that a balky team could not draw the party out of its swamp of misfortune, and today the "general staff" of the army is proceeding harmoniously and intelligently. The next step must be to reach the voters in the ranks and prepare them for the forced march on the polls that must be taken if victory is to be won.

There is a disposition in every county to make the campaign aggressive, the result of which is to stimulate the enthusiasm of individual Democrats who in the past have been indifferent as to whether they voted or not. The hope of success this year lies in getting every Democratic vote into the ballot box, and the surest method of bringing that about is to enlist the interest of the voters themselves. When they find they are no longer neglected they will be up and doing.

Borough Council Meeting.

The Centre Hall borough council held a regular meeting on Friday evening. The members present were Messrs. Daup, Bradford, Feidler, Martz and Lucas, the absentees being Meyer and Smith.

The routine business of hearing reports of the various committees was gone through without anything of note coming before the body.

New business brought before the council was a request by citizens for privilege to erect a street crossing from Tibbetts' furniture store below Kreamer's general store to Rossman's private residence above the Rossman store building now occupied by the postoffice. The crossing will be constructed of brick and wholly at the cost of the petitioners, who are private citizens.

Another bit of new business was to grant a building permit to the Reporter.

The street committee was authorized to put up "run slow" sign boards at the approaches to the borough.

Prison Site Selected.

Upon reliable authority the Gazette stated that the main prison building of the new Western Penitentiary will be located near Peru station, but a short distance from the Lewisburg & Tyrone R. R. The main building and a group of other prison buildings will be erected upon that portion of the penitentiary site, enclosed within a wall 1500x1000 feet. The main building will front 1200 feet and run back to a depth of 100 feet, according to present plans as outlined. The engineer's plans and blue prints, giving grades, fills and location of wall and prison buildings have virtually been completed.

It is anticipated that the first active construction will be the erection of a large power dam in Spring Creek, though no date has been definitely set for beginning operations.

ENTERING THIRTEENTH YEAR.

The Reporter Passes Another Milestone—Announcement of the Building of a New Home for the Printing Plant.

With this issue the Centre Reporter enters upon its thirteenth year under its present management, and is well on in its eighty-fifth volume. Forty-four volumes were issued in Centre Hall, and forty-one in Aaronsburg, the former editor claiming to have inherited the right to continue the series, regardless of the fact that the plant was removed to Centre Hall, and the paper changed from being printed in the German to the English language.

The present editor makes no claim to having done great things during the time he conducted the Centre Reporter, but while there was no opportunity to do the great things, there was no hesitancy in doing the lesser.

The first purpose of the writer has been to give the news of the community. Because there were no happenings such as would stir half the world, the little things were not neglected. The Reporter has always aimed to note all occurrences in the community that were worthy of mention. It has always preferred to praise rather than condemn; it has endeavored to keep the writer's personal feelings in check, and it can be said that this was done to a greater extent than is exhibited by most newspapers whether great or small.

Since its very beginning the Reporter has advocated Democratic principles, and with possibly a few exceptions, in its earlier history, its support was given to all Democratic candidates in the many campaigns through which it passed. The ardent support given Democratic measures and men is not regretted. In these days when with many party ties count for little, we are not flirting with the Socialist, the Bull Moose or the Big Elephant. We believe the Democratic party just as effective as ever; we believe in its principles just as strongly as ever; and we will give in the campaign now on to Democratic measures and men loyal support.

This paper has always stood for progress; it has never been a pullback. On local issues it has parted company with all who were non-progressive. The Reporter has always waged the cause of the people; it always stood for good government; for economy; for the rights of individua's; for good schools; for good morals. The advocacy of these things, strange as it may seem, occasionally lost the Reporter a subscriber, but never a reader.

In the end every pronounced stand taken by this paper has worked to its benefit. Honesty of purpose seldom, if ever, fails recognition by a class of men and women whose support is needed when success is sought. It will be our aim in the future to continue to advocate any cause that will be for the benefit of the community and the majority of the people.

The Centre Reporter is happy to announce that it purposes erecting a new home for the paper, its editor and family. The Reporter building will be modern, built of light Roman brick. There will be no effort to be extravagant, but nothing will be omitted to make the structure of a most substantial character. The building will be sixty-four feet front by thirty-two in depth, with several extensions on the rear, two stories high, with an attic that will finish 22x63 feet. The first floor will be occupied by the printing plant, private residence, and a store room, the second floor to private sleeping rooms, and rooms to let.

The location is between the old postoffice building and Kreamer's store building, now occupied by a small dwelling house. Building operations will be commenced as soon as mechanics can be induced to go to work.

Miss Anna Wagner Keichline, of Bellefonte, a skilled architect, drew the plans and specifications for the structure.

TWO NEW BUSINESS BLOCKS

In Centre Hall to be Erected Within the Coming Year—U. D. Bartholomew and the Reporter Will Contribute to Improvements.

In another column in this issue mention is made of the fact that the Centre Reporter will erect a business block in Centre Hall. In addition to this the writer is permitted to announce that Charles D. Bartholomew will erect a business block adjoining that of the Reporter. The Bartholomew block will have a frontage of sixty-two feet, by sixty feet in depth. The structure will be of brick, and at least two if not three stories in height. A part of the first and second floors will be occupied by Mr. Bartholomew as a private residence, and the remainder of the structure will be arranged to accommodate any business, offices, etc., that may demand space in the future.

With this portion of Centre Hall built up new from the foundation, all sections of the town will be without blemish, the sites to be covered being the only ones now not presenting a view in keeping with the general good appearance in all other parts.

The building of this block must of necessity be postponed until next spring, because of the fact that one of the buildings now on the site is under lease until that time.

Milroy "Professionals" Beat Locals.

The Centre Hall base ball club wandered out of its latitude Saturday when they crossed the Seven Mountains and tackled the strong Milroy team. The 8 to 0 score proved that bigger game is found in the vicinity of the Seven Mountains than along old Nittany, and until Centre Hall can afford to collect an aggregation of paid ball tossers, they must be content to play strictly amateur ball.

Milroy put a nine on the field that bids fair to win the series in the present battle for the championship of Mifflin county. They are all professional players and the pitcher, "Bunker" Kreamer, has seen service in several minor leagues. They win games on their superior batting strength and their sensational fielding.

Centre Hall did good work in the field but failed at the bat. Only one hit was made off Milroy in the nine innings of play.

Smith pitched a creditable game, but as long as inning after inning revealed nothing but a zero in the run column for the locals, good pitching went for naught.

LOCALS.

Fergus Potter, Esq., of near Linden Hall, is having his dwelling house remodeled. The work is being done by Aaron Thomas.

Dr. Woods, of Pine Grove Mills, was in town a few days ago in consultation with Dr. J. V. Foster on one of the latter's patients.

Miss Lizzie Runkle, who divides her time between her sisters, Mrs. R. D. Runkle, at Shamokin, and Mrs. J. H. Runkle, of near Centre Hall, is with the latter sister now.

The borough schools open Monday, September 2nd. There will be no school Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of the week of the Grange Encampment and Fair, two weeks later.

Before returning home to Phoenixville, Misses Joyce Bible and Mary Davis, who were students at the Summer School at Pennsylvania State College, were guests over Sunday of Miss Bessie Breon, in Centre Hall.

Interest in the old home is never wholly lost, no matter how long one is absent from it, or where he or she is located. S. M. Goodhart, of Johnstown, comes this week with a letter that indicates that he has a live interest here.

Miss Katharine Forcey, of Beech Creek, is the guest of Miss Elizabeth Boozer. The girls were chums when students at the Central Pennsylvania State Normal School, at Lock Haven, and also at Barnesboro, where both were teachers in the public schools of that place.

Miss Mary Love Campbell, who in June graduated from the Annville High School, is preparing to become a trained nurse. She will take a course at a school in Baltimore, being attracted there by her cousin, Miss Struble, who is the superintendent. Miss Campbell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Campbell, at Linden Hall.

Mrs. Runkle, wife of Dr. Stuart C. Runkle, and sons, John and Stuart, of Philadelphia, have been at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Runkle, near Centre Hall, and Mrs. Lucinda Runkle, at Spring Mills, during the past few weeks. Mrs. Runkle also visited at Milton, Newport and other places. They all returned to their Philadelphia home on Saturday.

LETTERS FROM SUBSCRIBERS.

Reporter Subscribers' Correspondent Column—Interesting Communications.

Under another cover I mail you today's Democrat, which contains a full explanation of how the people of Johnstown stand on "free and perpetual" franchises. Our good mayor, the first the city has ever had, has been fighting for the people's rights ever since elected, and last night's meeting was the outcome of his appeal to the taxpayers, asking what to do.

As Centre Hall has had a touch of "franchise business," and you put up a good fight for the people, I thought the article in this day's Democrat might interest you.

Politics is getting a little warmer, and a goodly Wilson sentiment seems to prevail among progressive Republicans.

Very truly yours,
SAMUEL M. GOODHART.
Johnstown, Pa., July 30, 1912.

[The incident referred to by Mr. Goodhart in his letter above is an indignation meeting held by the people of Johnstown, at which the action of the city council was vigorously condemned for having passed an ordinance granting to the Johnstown and Stoney Creek railroad company a free and perpetual franchise. Mayor Cauffiel was opposed to the action of the council, and called the people together to ascertain their position on the question. Fifteen hundred people gathered to enter their protest against giving away the rights of the people forever and without remuneration.

During the progress of this meeting it developed that the Johnstown Water Company held a free and perpetual franchise, and that it now values its property at two million dollars and its right (obtained free by an ordinance) at one million dollars.

The Pennsylvania Railroad receives a yearly rental of $200 from the city of Johnstown for ground on which a fire house is erected. This ground was obtained for nothing.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad got free privileges in that city, and the Southern Columbia Railroad occupies about two miles of street for which it pays nothing, but it was obliged to pay the Baltimore and Ohio road $10,000 to cross eight feet of its tracks.

This city council has been in the habit of granting free and perpetual franchises, but the people have now said it must be stopped.

A particular feature of this assemblage of particular interest to the people of Centre Hall was the appointment of a committee of citizens by the Mayor to attend every meeting of the council and "see that the interests of the taxpayers are taken care of."

What the people of Johnstown ought to do, and what the people of every city and borough ought to do with councilmen that are either crooked themselves or too ignorant to distinguish between right and wrong, is to retire them from office at the end of their terms, and in the meantime watch every act they perform.]

Smite the Rats.

The rat is the twentieth-century anachronism. He is as much behind the times as stone hatchets or arrow heads, and yet today we tolerate him, we permit him to devastate our storehouses and to act as the vehicle for the transmission of disease between his loathesome body and the body of man. The toleration which we have shown for this inhabitant of the sewer and frequenter of the dump is perhaps due to the fact that man is by nature a lazy animal and will make no unnecessary effort unless spurred to it by some circumstances in his environment. It has been necessary for plague to ravage the world many times before man has learned that the rat and the mouse are among the most deadly animals with which he has to deal. That rats are the carriers of plague is too well known to merit more than a passing reference. They are also afflicted with a leprosy-like disease which closely resembles the leprosy of man. A number of other diseases exist commonly among them, the organisms of which are believed to be capable of producing human disease. They are also the hosts for a legion of parasites, while fleas, lice and ticks, infest their hairy bodies. The rat, then, is a menace to us physically. He also threatens us commercially. There is one right thing to do—exterminate him.

At a recent meeting of the school board of Ferguson township, the following teachers were chosen: Krumrine, Fred Tate; Pine Hall, Grace Elder; Oak Grove, George Dunlap; White Hall, Grace Dunlap; Branch, Frank Reed; Pine Grove primary, Ella Livingstone; Pine Grove grammar, Harry Walker; Baileyville grammar, Gertrude Keichline; Baileyville primary, Etta Ward; Gatesburg, Fred Rossman; Tadpole, A. C. Kepler; Centre, Florence Kepler; Glades, Viola Burwell. No selections have been made for the high school at Pine Grove Mills, Kepler and Guyer.

The supervisors of Buffalo township, Union county, have been sued for neglect of the roads by H. W. Spangler.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

HAPPENINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST FROM ALL PARTS.

There were many autos on the road on Sunday.

The Tressler family reunion was held yesterday (Wednesday) on the fair grounds, at Bellefonte.

A heating plant is being installed by Mr. Twitmyer, of Bellefonte, in the residence of George H. Emerick, in Centre Hall.

A valuable brood mare, belonging to B. W. Rossman, of Penn township, died on Monday. The animal was sick for three weeks.

The proposed "run slow" signs will be appreciated by the automobilist who thinks more of his machine than he does of his life.

A. B. Meyer, of Coburn, and G. P. Garrett, of near Rebersburg, last week each bought a Ford touring car from the C. H. Breon Auto Company, of Millheim.

Rev. James Runkle, of Newport, and Rev. W. J. Wagner, of New Bloomfield, assisted Rev. Barry to conduct services in the Lutheran church on Sunday morning.

Dr. W. H. Schuyler, who has been on a vacation in various parts of New York, will be home this week, and will hold services on Sunday as scheduled in the calendar of the local churches.

James H. Lohr, of Rutledge, a suburb of Philadelphia, joined his family who have been in Centre Hall for a week. Mr. Lohr will have a week's vacation, which is a longer one than he has enjoyed for some years.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hoy and son Duffield, of New Berlin, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Gross Mingle from Friday until Wednesday. Mr. Hoy is a sales agent for a paint and varnish manufacturing establishment.

Rev. F. W. Barry was called to Hartleton on Saturday to officiate at the funeral of Mrs. Wamsley, nee Miss Helen Catherman, daughter of C. C. Catherman, of Hartleton, who died at Parsons, West Virginia. She had just been married last October.

"Farmer" W. G. Ross, a graduate of the Penn State school of agriculture, class of 1908, has been appointed superintendent of the penitentiary farms at Peru. This is a much coveted appointment and the state could not have chosen a better man for the place.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Mueller and two children, on Saturday morning, missed the train going east, and in order to attend the funeral of Mrs. Wamsley, at Hartleton, had the Boozer-Fetterolf livery car take them to Union county. On their return they brought with them Rev. F. W. Barry, who officiated at the funeral.

Rev. and Mrs. James Runkle and daughters Misses Sarah and Mary, of Newport, were at the Centre Hall hotel last week. Rev. Runkle was called home on Monday to officiate at the funeral of one of his parishioners, and during his absence Mrs. Runkle and daughters were at the home of Mrs. Lucinda Runkle, at Spring Mills, mother of Rev. Runkle.

Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Wagner and children, Miss Mary and Master John, from the latter part of last week until Wednesday were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Kerlin, of Centre Hall. From here they went to Bellefonte to visit Mrs. Wagner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hezekiah Hoy. Rev. Wagner is a native of Potter township. He is now serving a Lutheran charge at New Bloomfield.

Councilman I. M. Harvey, who was severely injured by getting mixed up with a dog at the Edwards residence during commencement week, is still confined to the house and unable to sit up for more than a few minutes at a time, is a statement made by the State College Times. In the endeavor to save himself from falling he sprained the sciatic nerve on the right side in such a way that in order to get relief he is compelled to retain a recumbent position.

The automobile is a source of considerable news in the local papers. If Mr. Brown hasn't just received a new car, he broke his old one all to thunder by running it into a telephone pole, or over an embankment. The Kelleys, at Snow Shoe, are making a record by doing things to mules and running over buggies, etc. Last week a car driven by one of the Snow Shoe Kelleys ran down and killed a mule, and later in the vicinity of Runville the same car ran down a buggy in which were seated Mrs. R. T. Comley her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Elwood Comley and a little baby. They were all thrown from the vehicle, and the younger Mrs. Comley had an arm broken and dislocated. The baby was not injured, and this ought to give the driver of the machine courage to do a better job the next time.

FARM AND BEE YARD

OBSERVATORY HIVE IS NEW

All the Doings of Bees and Queen Can Be Watched — Found Quite Handy and Is Inexpensive.

My observatory hive consists of two circles of inch wood made exactly the same size, and with a three-inch hole cut out of the center of each, writes Walter Chitty in the Gleanings in Bee Culture. At the bottom of one of the circles a bee entrance is made which reaches as far as the center hole. The bees can run along to the center, and then ascend. Four pieces of wood, about three inches wide, are firmly fastened with screws, as shown, and three grooves are cut in each of these pieces, and corresponding grooves in the two large circles. The center grooves are for foundation, and the other grooves for glass. The foundation could be wired if desired; but if good thick foundation is used I find wiring is not necessary.

The hole at the top may be used for feeding or supering. Special supers could easily be made, another hive of the same sort put on top, or a bell-glass, as fancy dictates. I find this a very useful and handy hive for observation purposes, and the making and material are not at all expensive.

All the doings of the bees and queen can be seen; and to keep them in the dark I merely put corrugated paper around it, and keep the paper in its place with a piece of elastic. In winter time, three or four folds of paper could be used to keep the bees warm. These hives would do well for indoor observation, or in a beehouse.

MANY FAKES WITH BEES

Nonswarming Hives Are Delusion, Pure and Simple—"Shook Swarm" Plan Is Described.

Most of the so-called nonswarming hives are fakes pure and simple. The very last word on the subject is that of the "shook swarm" plan, that enables the beekeeper to swarm each hive artificially at his convenience and not that of the bees. This is the best method in vogue and is really very simple. Dr. D. Everett Lyon explains the process in the Farm and Home: When a hive gives evidence that it is thinking about swarming, as seen in the bees clustering on the outside of the hive and the presence of queen cells started in the brood nest, it is time to shake them.

Take an empty hive with lid and bottom board in place and with the frames of the hive containing strips of foundation wax in place as full combs. Place the empty hive alongside the one about to swarm and then, lifting the brood frames from the old hive, shake off from each frame almost all the bees until all the frames have been so shaken in front of the new hive, being sure to shake the queen along with the bees.

Then set the old hive with its brood nest off some distance and put the new hive with the bees in its place. Be sure to take all the storage chambers from the old hive and place them on the new hive into which the bees have been shaken. The working force is with the new hive and that's where we want the storage chambers, which will be quickly filled, as the bees, having only started strips of wax in the brood combs, must, of necessity, store the honey coming in the next few days in the upper stories until such time as they will get the starters drawn out into full combs.

COVERING ALFALFA IN CORN

Home-Made Device Shown in Illustration Found Quite Convenient in Southeastern Ohio.

Sometimes farmers obtain good results from sowing alfalfa between the rows of standing corn. Where this is done it is often a puzzle to get the seed properly covered. The accompanying illustration is a home-made plank drag, 34 inches wide and

FIGHTING PESTS IN GARDENS

Larger Squash Bugs Found Harder to Control Than Other Insects—Treatment Differs.

All of us are bothered more or less, with injurious insect pests in the garden, and with dealing with them the first thing to be determined is whether they are chewing or sucking insects, whether they eat the leaf or extract its sap. There must be entirely different treatment employed in the two cases.

The chewing insects are comparatively easy to get rid of, unless they are working on the foliage, which will be injured by the application of a poison strong enough to kill the insects.

The sucking insects insert their bills through the skin of the leaf or stem that they are feeding on, so as to extract the juice, therefore no matter how much poison is applied to the surface, the insects get none of it.

For the striped beetle, which is destructive to squash, cucumber and melon vines, a slight application of lime, tobacco dust, plaster, or ashes, will be found a good preventive, and will also drive away those which may have already appeared. Sometimes, however, the ashes will burn the foliage if rain falls soon after they are applied, so on the whole lime, and plaster, or tobacco dust are better for the purpose, says a writer in the Farm Progress. Some keep a healthy bunch of onions growing in each hill, bruising the leaves occasionally, so as to hide the smell of the vines from the beetles.

The larger squash bugs have been the most troublesome and the hardest to deal with in our garden. They are sap suckers, and there is nothing we have found that will kill them which would not at the same time be injurious to the plants, so hand picking seems the only remedy. It makes quite a difference in the amount of work done whether hand picking is commenced early in the season or not until the new crop of bugs appear.

Imported Potatoes.

The secretary of agriculture warns American farmers against using imported potatoes for home production. Europe has several potato diseases not known to this country ,and there is danger of introducing these diseases if the imported product is used for seed. The foreign-grown are all right for table use, but for cultivation they carry no little risk.

Bees and Farm Notes

The humus content of the soil is important in the orchard.

To keep lawns in good condition, practice weekly mowing.

Thousands of bushels of grain are spoiled every year by poor stacking.

Alfalfa is ready to cut when the crowns begin to send up new shoots.

Train up the tomato plants, it will give them size and they will bear better.

Don't forget to take water to the field for the horses during these hot days.

It is a well known fact that alfalfa does not do well upon an impervious subsoil.

The growth and feeding value of the soy bean is quite like that of the cowpea.

"Too little phosphorus" is the cause of many of the low yields on corn belt soils.

There seems to be a good deal of prejudice against millet because it exhausts the soil.

The yellow condition of the alfalfa indicates that it has not received sufficient nitrogen.

Sand and hairy vetch compare very favorably with alfalfa and clover hay as a feed for milch cows.

It is estimated that ten years of single cropping will wear out any but the very richest of soil.

Use the hoe in the garden a little every day. It will give good returns for all the time you put in that way.

Baling corn fodder is a new idea, but if it works out well it will save a good deal of hard and disagreeable work.

It is always a good plan to use plenty of seed in planting cucumbers, cantaloupes, melons, etc. The hills may be thinned out later.

Oats and peas should be cut for hay when the oats are in the milk stage and the advance pea pods contain reasonably good sized peas.

MILLER HUGGINS AS BIG LEAGUE MANAGER

Veteran Second Baseman Huggins of Cardinals.

Miller Huggins is playing his last year with the Cardinals. That is, the tiny second-sacker will depart if Manager Roger Bresnahan can put through a deal this winter that will strengthen the National league troupe.

Huggins is not to be traded because Bresnahan envies the brains of the "Rabbit," or because there is ill-feeling between the boss and his tricky little assistant, but because Miller

Manager Kling of Boston.

Huggins has the managerial bee buzzing in his bonnet.

There are not many more years of major league baseball left in Huggins. Miller knows that, also Roger. But there is a head on the shoulders of the pee-wee that contains a lot of smart baseball, and one that holds as much baseball knowledge, inside and outside, as almost any of the present day managers.

There is a standing order between Bresnahan and Huggins now that if the second-sacker can arrange a trade for himself that will strengthen the Cardinals it will go through. Last winter it was thought that Huggins would become leader of the Cincinnati Reds, and when Miller was in the running for the job he was given permission from Bresnahan to open negotiations for a trade.

When Hank O'Day was appointed Huggins lost out. But he continues to seek a position as general director and if any bids are received he will be allowed to depart, of course, providing Bresnahan is pleased with what he is offered.

If Huggins leaves the Cardinals after this year when Lee Magee will become the second baseman. Magee is outclassed by Huggins in experience, but Lee is speedier than his opponent, is a better hitter and is going to become one of the best base runners in the circuit.

Then Bresnahan thinks that he has the coming greatest second baseman in the game in Magee. He is an ardent admirer of the Cincinnati lad for the simple reason that he has copied Roger's style perfectly—being full of vim and dash and wide awake all the time.

For the present, and probably for the rest of 1912 Magee will do left field duty.

Huggins probably would have gone to Boston when the Cardinals were in the east, but for John M. Ward and his co-worker, James Caffney, being attacked with cold feet. The bosses of the Braves and Johnny Kling, are not working in harmony, and it has been hinted often that Kling is not a shrewd or smart leader.

The opening for Huggins is Boston, unless Garry Herrmann ousts Hank O'Day in Cincinnati. Both teams have material that could strengthen the Cardinals, and when Roger Bresnahan gets ready to talk with his foes for Huggins, he is not going to put a 10-20-30 tag on pee-wee Miller.

PLAYED IN VARIOUS LEAGUES

Jack Graney Has Every Other Member of Cleveland Team Beaten as to Experience.

"Jack" Graney has every other member of the Cleveland outfit outclassed and tied to the starting mark when it comes to variety of experiences. A year ago Jim McGuire led the field. Though younger in years, "Jack" has already performed in seven different leagues with the fololwing clubs: Erie, Pa.; Fulton, N. Y.; Rochester; Wilkesbarre, Cleveland, Columbus, Portland, Cleveland.

Beat it if you can. And he's still so yonug and frisky. Even Nap Lajoie, the vet in years of the squad, doesn't compare with "Jack." Larry has confined his efforts to three clubs, Fall River, Athletics and Cleveland. "Tuck" Turner and Joe Birmingham, the other vets, also stand near the foot of the list. "Tuck's" record shows a trial with Pittsburg, subsequent development at Columbus, and finally a trip to Cleveland. Joe Birmingham displayed his talent with the A., J. and G. team of the N. Y. State league, before Cleveland grabbed him.

Tris Speaker Best Player.

Billy Murray, one of the best judges of a ball player in the country and who is now acting as scout for the Pirates, awards the palm for being the best player to Tris Speaker. Says Billy: "You can praise Ty Cobb, Joe Jackson and the other great outfielders in the big leagues, but none of them is in the class with Tris Speaker of the Red Sox. Speaker is the best player on the diamond today. As a hitter, fielder, thrower and base runner he has Cobb and the others beaten. I've seen all the stars of twenty-five years, and the Beaneater is the king."

NOTES of the DIAMOND

Stovall is slowly, but surely, whipping his Brownies into winning form.

Walter Johnson of the Washington Senators has only one bad habit. He chews gum.

If the Athletics have a $10,000 infield the Boston Red Sox have a $1,000,000 outfield.

Bill Armour, the former Detroit-Toledo manager, is scouting for the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Washington fans still believe that the Senators will cop the American league bunting.

Mike Simon, who was slated for the discards last fall, has proved a handy man for the Pirates.

Rehg, whom the Pirates turned over to St. Paul, is hitting hard and stealing numerous bases.

It has been rumored and denied that Hughey Jennings is to manage the Boston Braves next season.

Detroit has bought a third baseman named Deal. Jokes are now in order. Deal kindly with the boy, however.

Over in Philadelphia the fans are still hoping that the Athletics will come through and win the flag again.

The Cubs and the Pirates are having a merry little struggle between themselves in the National league pennant race—for second place.

Vincent Campbell, the Boston outfielder, has improved wonderfully in his work in the field. He covers an immense amount of ground and is a sure catch of a fly ball.

JOHNSON IS GREAT PITCHER

Has Added to His Terrific Speed Excellent Control, Slow Ball and Quick Breaking Curve.

"Walter Johnson is today a perfect pitcher," said one of the veteran umpires of the American league recently in discussing the Washington marvel. "If you could have a hurler made to order you couldn't design one who would be a bit more effective than the big Swede, whose name is a terror to the best batsmen in the country.

"Johnson isn't using his terrific speed much nowadays. In fact, he seldom cuts one loose with all his might unless he happens to be in a tight place and opposed to a hitter who is weak on the fast ones. He throws a lot of fast balls with a break on them still, but they are not of the old armor-piercing type that made him famous.

"At one time he had to depend almost entirely on the velocity of his ball and his control to make him formidable, but now he has acquired a good curve and a nice change of pace. For some time he has been experimenting with a slow ball, and now he has got command of it. Think of the deadly efficiency of a slow one coming after a ball that has been turned through a mile a minute.

"Walter's curve is not the widest in the world, but it is a quick one, and the break plenty large enough to accomplish the desired purpose. His control, which always has been good, seems to be improving.

"On top of this he has a splendid disposition for a pitcher. Nothing seems to rattle him. Some pitchers get up in the air if they think an umpire has missed a strike in a pinch, but Walter just smiles, knowing that he can lay the next one over if he has to. He is by all odds the greatest pitcher in the game today and to my mind there never lived one who was any better. As near as any human being can hope to achieve in any line of endeavor Johnson has achieved it as a pitcher."

MODERN BASEBALL IS FASTER

Nothing to Be Accomplished by Wordy Controversy on Merits of Old and Young Players.

There may be some good accomplished from a wordy controversy whether or not baseball is faster than it used to be, but just exactly how this is to effect the cost of living is not so perfectly apparent, says the Milwaukee Sentinel.

The old fellows who have had their day and who are continually looking backward, seem to think that they played faster and better in the olden time, but the young men who are now engaged in making baseball history are dead sure the old timers were truck horses in comparison with them.

There is no reason why the old-timers could not hit a ball just exactly as hard; run just as fast and field just as accurately. It may be that owing to the development of pitching they would not have an opportunity to hit and run as often, and inside baseball may be developed more than it was in the olden times, but grant all this and what's the answer?

It pleases us who remember some of the old-timers to think they were just as good as the best, but it may be that we are mistaken. At that, it is pretty hard to see what is going to be accomplished by the disillusionment. If the men of today are much better than they used to be, let it go at that. Nothing can be accomplished by arguing this question any more than can be by indulging in a controversy over politics or religion.

Boston Lands Western Player.

The sale of Pitcher Wynn Noyes of the Spokane club to the Boston club of the National league has been announced. Noyes, who is the star right-handler of the Spokane club, will not be delivered until the close of the Northwestern league season.

BEYOND LIMIT OF PATIENCE

Uses of the Telephone Will Be Apt to Condone Mr. Busiman's Brief Loss of Temper.

He was just about exasperated with the telephone, was Mr. Busiman.

Ten times that morning he had tried to get on to a number, and each time something had prevented him from speaking. Either it was "number engaged," or the person he wanted to speak to was out, or else he had been suddenly cut off. At last he got through.

"Hallo!" said he. "Is Mr. X. there?"

"Yes," replied a voice. "Do you want to speak to him?"

That was the last straw. Back came the reply in icy tones:

"Oh, no! Nothing of the sort. I merely rung up to hand him a cigar!"

Making Himself at Home.

Doris was radiant over a recent addition to the family, and rushed out of the house to tell the news to a passing neighbor.

"Oh, you don't know what we've got upstairs!"

"What is it?"

"It's a new baby brother!"—and she settled back upon her heels and folded her hands to watch the effect.

"You don't say so! Is he going to stay?"

"I guess so."—very thoughtfully. "He's got his things off."

Telling Comment.

Ty Cobb of the Tigers said at a recent baseball banquet in Philadelphia:

"I admit that there is too much loud talk, too much arguing and wrangling and chin music in a game of baseball.

"I know a man who was seen the other day getting into a taxicab.

"'Where are you going?' they asked him.

"'I'm going to hear the ball game,' he replied."

FAMILY RUNT

Kansas Man Says Coffee Made Him That.

"Coffee has been used in our family of eleven—father, mother, five sons and four daughters—for thirty years. I am the eldest of the boys and have always been considered the runt of the family and a coffee toper.

"I continued to drink it for years until I grew to be a man, and then I found I had stomach trouble, nervous headaches, poor circulation, was unable to do a full day's work, took medicine for this, that and the other thing, without the least benefit. In fact I only weighed 116 when I was 28.

"Then I changed from coffee to Postum, being the first one in our family to do so. I noticed, as did the rest of the family, that I was surely gaining strength and flesh. Shortly after I was visiting my cousin who said, 'You look so much better—you're getting fat.'

"At breakfast his wife passed me a cup of coffee, as she knew I was always such a coffee drinker, but I said, 'No, thank you.'

"'What!' said my cousin, 'you quit coffee? What do you drink?'

"'Postum,' I said, 'or water, and I am well.' They did not know what Postum was, but my cousin had stomach trouble and could not sleep at night from drinking coffee three times a day. He was glad to learn about Postum, but said he never knew coffee would hurt anyone." (Tea is just as injurious as coffee because it contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee.)

"After understanding my condition and how I got well he knew what to do for himself. He discovered that coffee was the cause of his trouble as he never used tobacco or anything else of the kind. You should see the change in him now. We both believe that if persons who suffer from coffee drinking would stop and use Postum they could build back to health and happiness." MADDENED BY RED NECKTIE

Gentle Bossy, Suddenly Infuriated, Seriously Wounds Child.

COW DRAGS GIRL ON HOOK

While Leading the Jersey from the Field Three Men Appeared, One With a Flaming Tie—Helen Masters Seriously Hurt.

Allentown.—Impaled on a hook and dragged around a field by an infuriated cow, Helen Masters, the 16-year-old daughter of Charles Masters, a farmer living near Wescosville, was seriously hurt. With the men busy at harvest, Miss Matsers was delegated to tend the cattle. She was leading a Jersey that had always been a gentle bossy from the pasture field when three men came walking along. One of these wore a red necktie. The men neither spoke nor made motions, but as soon as the cow spied them she reared furiously. The hook at the end of the chain by which Miss Masters was leading the cow, caught in the girl's right thigh, and as the animal plunged across the field the girl was dragged over the rough ground. The men started in pursuit, but before they caugh up the cruel hook, which had sunk to the bone, was torn out of the flesh. The girl had fainted. The men picked her up and hurriedly summoned Dr. Albert N. Miller. The leg was so badly lacerated that she will be crippled.

Girl a Year in Snakedom.

Washington.—Declaring that she was compelled to work in a den of snakes in a traveling show, and exhibiting scars on her arms which she said were caused by the bites of the slimy reptiles, Miss Goldie Denman, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Denman, reckoned as one of the prettiest and most popular girls of Washington, reached home after being strangely missing for nearly a year. The girl told an amazing story of her experience since she had vanished, following the close of the county fair here last fall. In her story, told to the authorities here, Miss Denman said she had become acquainted with a young stranger at the fair, and when the fair closed this man persuaded to accompany a side show. The girl said she left town with the company with the idea of "traveling to the next town for the fun of the thing," and then returning home. Scarcely was she out of the town when, according to her story, the manager of the company informed her that she was under a contract and threatened her if she attempted to escape or made any statement to officers.

Jilted Swain Grew Peevish.

York.—When Lenora O'Bryan left Chauncey Hobbs waiting at the church, Hobbs didn't break into melancholy song, but hired a team and started out to find his faithless sweetheart, who was out for a drive. He came upon her in the street, and, following the encounter, the girl preferred charges of aggravated assault and battery, under which Hobbs is now waiting in jail. Miss O'Bryan alleges that she was driving a younger sister when her jilted lover sprang from his buggy and attacked her. She was beaten and choked, she says, and most of her clothing was torn from her back, besides which Hobbs threatened her with a revolver and stiletto.

Fear Tarantula in Soda.

Pittsburgh.—Learning a tarantula had escaped from a bunch of bananas and was supposed to be in the soda water reservoir, hysterical girl members of the ultra-fashionable Oakmont Motor Boat Club left their glasses and dashed wildly from the building. Several fainted and had to be removed to their homes. Others clambered into their autos and dashed madly to the nearest physicians, while several ran to nearby drug stores and begged for emetics and stomach pumps. Only those who had not imbibed of the soda were free from the thought of a poisonous and revolting death. The tarantula was later recaptured in an abandoned pipe.

Fatal Bolt Finds His Shelter.

West Chester.—During a storm, Joseph Ingram Gould, aged 27 years, sought shelter in the barn of a neighbor, Taylor Ingram, and while standing in the open doorway, was struck by lightning and instantly killed. Little damage was done the building.

Saved Drowning Youth.

Chester.—George Wilson saved Jas. Abbott from death by drowning in the Delaware river, the youth, unable to swim, having gone beyond his depth.

Berry Pickers Killed.

Saltsburg.—When lightning struck the tree under which they took shelter during a rainstorm, on the Schmidt farm, a mile and a half from here, two women and a girl were instantly killed. The victims were Mrs. Louise Schmidt, 65 years old, wife of William Schmidt; Emma A. Schmidt, 41 years old, daughter of Mrs Schmidt; Katherine Marie Widgman, eight years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Widgman, of Pittsburgh. Mrs. Widgman and her daughter were visiting at the Schmidt farm.

COMMERCIAL

Weekly Review of Trade and Market Reports.

Bradstreets' says:

"The week's report furnish a veritable budget of good news. Practically every crop prospect pleases, current trade is of seasonable volume, buying for fall and beyond is expanding, the iron and steel industry is oversold, labor is scarce, railroads are preparing for a heavy traffic in the autumn, gross earnings are improving, just now no one seems to be much concerned about political matters and although retail dealers have to cut profits in order to move stocks, business has been stimulated. Expansion in trade is most visible in the Northwest and sections catering thereto. Eastern centers also note an uplift in trade. Print cloths are firm, with staple goods showing activity. Deliveries of dress goods and men's wear are so far behind as to cause clothing manufacturers some concern and mill agent reserve the right to advance prices at any time. In the knit goods and hosiery line business for next spring is expanding and purchasers of washed fabrics and fancy cottons are sampling quite liberally in preference to buying freely, spring of 1913."

TWO TERRIBLE CASES OF RINGWORM CURED

By Resinol. Itching and Disfiguring.

Chicago, Ill., June 5, 1912: "My little daughter had a running sore, which I was told was a wet ringworm, on the back of her head from ear to ear, and also one which spread from one hip to the other, extending from the waist down. They itched her continually. She had to be carried on a pillow, and nights she could not sleep on account of the sores. She suffered terribly, and would scratch continually. I bought Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment, and after about two weeks my child was well and hearty." (Signed) Mrs. Emely Skelnik, 2953 Gresham Ave.

Nossville, Pa., May 11, 1912: "It is the greatest pleasure for me to testify to the merits of Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment in the treatment of ringworms, from which I suffered for about five weeks until I found a perfect cure in Resinol.

"The trouble began with severe itching, affecting my face and neck. Then burning set in, causing me to lose a lot of sleep. In all, there were a dozen fairly large sores, with many small ones. The sores were very unsightly. I tried several remedies without much relief until a happy thought struck me to try Resinol Soap and Ointment. It made short work of the ringworm." (Signed) E. S. Red Cross Seals Being Printed.

Seventy-five million Red Cross seals are now being printed for the holiday sale of these anti-tuberculosis stickers for 1912. The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, which in co-operation with the American Red Cross will conduct the sale, makes this announcement and states further that the outlook this year is bright for a higher sale than ever before.

The seal this year is said to be the best of its kind that the Red Cross has ever issued. The design is in three colors, red, green and gray. A Santa Claus head in the three colors is shown in the center surrounded by holly wreaths. In each corner is a small red cross. The seal bears the greeting, Merry Christmas, Happy New Year, American Red Cross, 1912."

Two small boys in a family of Friends, writes a contributor, had a disagreement, during which the older boy became very much incensed.

Finally, no longer able to control himself, he took his brother by the shoulder and shook him, with the exclamation, "Oh, thee little you, thee!"

Then as the enormity of his offense came over him, he said, in a changed voice, "Don't tell mother I swore."—Youth's Companion.

Governor Suffered Because His Request Was Not Couched in Plain Enough Language.

Mr. Melvil Dewey, state librarian of New York, said recently that libraries would do well to furnish free music rolls for player-pianos, just as they now furnish books.

"In Toledo," said Dr. Dewey the other day, "my project has been lately inaugurated. It will accomplish much for the musical art."

Then, apropos of music and ignorance, Dr. Dewey told a story.

"A certain governor," he said, "was being lunched at a seaside town. During the repast the local band played on the beach outside the hotel. The drum was in charge of a blacksmith, and he beat it so resonantly that at last this message was sent out:

"'The governor requests the drummer to desist.'

"The bandmaster was puzzled by this message for a moment; then his face brightened in a smile, and he said:

"'More drum, Joe; the governor likes it.'"

SCURF ON BABY'S HEAD

Campbell, Va.—"I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment for scurf on my baby's head and they made a complete cure. It came on her head soon after birth. It broke out in pimples and itched and she would scratch it and cause sores to form. Her head was very sore and her hair fell out in bunches. She was very cross and fretful and could not sleep at night. I tried many remedies, all failed, then I tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they commenced to heal at once. I put the Cuticura Ointment on, and a half hour after washed her head with the Cuticura Soap. I used them a month and she was cured entirely." (Signed) Mrs. W. B. McMullen, Mar. 8, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston."

Sounds Better.

The feeling of many men with regard to public office is much the same as that which a certain distinguished Frenchman had toward the academy—that group of forty who are called "the immortals." He was asked one day why he did not propose his candidacy for the academy.

"Ah," said he, "if I applied and were admitted, some one might ask, 'Why is he in it?' and I should much rather hear it asked, 'Why isn't he in it?'"—Christian Register.

WHERE DOCTORS FAILED TO HELP

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Mrs. Green's Health—Her Own Statement.

Covington, Mo.—"Your medicine has done me more good than all the doctor's medicines. At every monthly period I had to stay in bed four days because of hemorrhages, and my back was so weak I could hardly walk. I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I can stay up and do my work. I think it is the best medicine on earth for women."—Mrs. JENNIE GREEN, Covington, Mo.

How Mrs. Cline Avoided Operation.

Brownsville, Ind.—"I can say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me more good than anything else. One doctor said I must be operated upon for a serious female trouble and that nothing could help me but an operation.

"I had hemorrhages and at times could not get any medicine to stop them. I got in such a weak condition that I would have died if I had not got relief soon.

"Several women who had taken your Compound, told me to try it and I did and found it to be the right medicine to build up the system and overcome female troubles.

"I am now in great deal better health than I ever expected to be, so I think I ought to thank you for it."—Mrs. O. M. CLINE, S. Main St., Brownsville, Ind.

MOTHER-OF-PEARL WORK.

Method by Which the Designs Are Built Up Bit by Bit.

Wonderful is the work of the designer in mother-of-pearl. With tiny segments of this iridescent material he builds up a beautiful design bit by bit, section by section.

First, from the cabinetmaker he receives the woodwork upon which his design will be formed. It may be the top of a carved chest, a portion of a stool or table, or some dainty nicknack to delight a lady's heart.

Then upon the wood he roughly draws the design and gathers together the crude pieces with which to form the mosaic in the wood. Selecting a piece of mother-of-pearl, he fits it in a vise, and then with a tiny file he shapes it to occupy the required space. Deftly he sets the section in the wood, fixing it with warm paste to fill the crevices.

Another piece is then selected, fashioned and secured, and so day after day till the piece is complete. The design is then rubbed with pumice stone to give enhanced color, varnish is applied, and the finishing touches are given.

Tonquin, a division of French Indo-China, furnishes the finest native inlayers of mother-of-pearl. — Pearson's Weekly.

A MUSICAL RIOT.

One of the Attractions at an Old Time Virginia Celebration.

Here is a program observed in the celebration of St. Andrew's day in an old Virginia town in 1737:

That a fiddle be played for by twenty fiddlers, every person to bring his own fiddle. After the prize is won they are all to play together and each one a different tune and then be treated by the company.

That twelve boys of twelve years of age do run for 112 yards for a hat at the cost of 12 shillings.

That a flag be flying on said day thirty feet high.

That after dinner the royal health, his honor the governor's, is to be drunk.

That a pair of silver buckles be wrestled for by a number of brisk young men.

That a pair of handsome shoes be danced for.

That a pair of handsome silk stockings of one pistole value be given to the handsomest young maid that appears in the field.

It is probable, says the Ohio State Journal, our tastes are too much changed to enjoy such a list of attractions, but one may imagine what fun they must have caused.

Ocean Cannibals.

Such fierce carnivorous fishes as exist in the depths of the ocean are unknown at the surface. There is a "black swallower" which devours other finny creatures ten times as big as itself, literally climbing over its victim, first with one jaw and then with the other. Another species is nearly all mouth, and, having no power of locomotion, it lies buried in the soft ooze at the bottom, its head alone protruding, ready to engulf any prey that may wander into its cavernous jaws. There is a ferocious kind of shark resembling a huge eel. All of these monsters are black as ink. Some of them are perfectly blind, while others have enormous, goggling eyes. No ray of sunlight ever pierces the dark, unfathomed caves in which they dwell. Each species is gobbled by the species next bigger, for there is no vegetable life to feed on.—Spare Moments.

As Others See It.

Every two or three weeks I approach my house from the unusual side and make a note of the effect of porch, windows and the curtains. Then I try to go into the house as a stranger. Pictures which have become so familiar that they were a part of the wall I see the need of changing, and so I see things all through the house. I think more than anything else I find the rooms overcrowded and fussy and something can be banished. Of course I can't always do these things at the time, but I make a note of them. This has worked so well with my house that I am trying it for myself. When dressed for the street or house I step to the glass and say, "Let me present you to Mrs. ——," and try to look at myself as a stranger, and I see many things to improve. It is a good thing to "see ourselves as others see us."—Harper's Bazar.

The Lobster's Color.

The shell of the lobster is imbued with a black or bluish pigment secreted by the true skin, which also gives out the calcareous matter after each molt, so that lime and pigment are blended together. This pigment becomes red, pale and intense in water at a temperature of 212 degrees Fahrenheit, and the same effect is produced by the action of alcohol, ether and various acids.

A Sad Discovery.

"How does Brown like the high position he was recently promoted to?"

"Not very well."

"But I thought it was paying him $10,000 a year?"

"So it is. But he's discovered that his employers expect him to earn it."—Detroit Free Press.

With Variations.

Smithers—He who courts and runs away may come to court another day.

Jenkins—But he who courts and does not wed may find himself in court instead.

Time misspent is not lived, but lost.—Fuller.

After the flood he was one of the rescuing party that worked in getting out the dead and wounded.

Judge B. Frank Keller, of Charleston, West Virginia, and F. W. Weber, of Boalsburg, were callers at the Reporter office on Tuesday. Judge and Mrs. Keller are spending a part of their vacation at the former's old home in Boalsburg, which town he left on graduating from Pennsylvania State College in 1876. He has been in the south since, first engaging in the practice of law in which he was very successful, at the same time investing and engaging in several ventures that proved highly profitable. About a dozen years ago he was elected to the bench, and in that capacity has made a good record. Next summer he expects to accompany Mrs. Keller on her second trip abroad.

There is some unfavorable comment on the ungenerous spirit exhibited by George R. Phillips, of Fishers Ferry, who gave a youth one dollar for having returned a wallet of $2500, which had been lost on the public road. It must be admitted that the Fishers Ferry man did pinch pretty hard, but on the other hand these acts of honesty ought not to be made appear to be performed for the purpose of gain. It costs nothing to be honest under any conditions. The man who returns your purse and expects half of its contents for "being honest," steals half of it, morally There are too many people who hold to their "find" until they are obliged to let loose, and then expect a great reward. Again, it has never cost any one any thing to be honest, and the person who is truly honest will not engage in robbery when he holds some one else's property unknown to him.

HOLIDAYS AND THEIR USES.

When it first occurred to any one to celebrate an event or commemorate a person, by cessation from toil and giving up a day to idleness, amusement, and festivity, is not known, but it must have been early in the history of social evolution. In the savage state of existence men lived from hand to mouth, and were obliged to hunt or fish every day to get their living. In a more advanced stage, when tillage of the soil became general, when the year's crops were garnered and stored, there came a time when work could be intermitted, and it was doubtless then that the first holiday was instituted. It was natural to signalize the annual ripening and gathering of the fruits of the earth by some sort of rejoicing, and it was natural, too, that the manifestation of renewed life in the spring should receive similar recognition. These autumn and spring festivals may be called the natural holidays. Once holidays were started, it is not strange that they grew in number, says the Cincinnati Enquirer. It is for most a world of toil and sweat and grime that we live in, and an occasional break accompanied by a little recreation and change of mental and physical environment, is necessary and salutary. Consequently all sorts of occasions and events were availed of to make holidays.

Present education, though very far from presenting an unpromising aspect, shows glaring inefficiencies that should be looked at squarely so that they may be removed. For instance, a very large proportion of the public school teachers in the country are minors, and less than half of them have had any special or adequate preparation for teaching; in several states from 20 to 30 per cent. of them every year are beginners; and in the best states the average length of service is less than four years. The average wage of all public school teachers in the United States, including the teachers in all our cities is $1.60 a day for the working days of the whole year—less than $500 per annum; or less than $10 a week, says the World's Work. The average pay in eleven states is less than $400; in eight states, it is less than $300; in two states, less than $250.

Eggs have been hatched in Egypt in ovens for hundreds of years. Incubators that hold from 30,000 to 60,000 eggs are still in existence, where for generations about 70 per cent. of each heating have been successfully hatched. Egypt is a great exporter of eggs, as many as 83,000,000 eggs having been shipped from that ancient land in one winter. Even in this country it would be considered a very large undertaking to handle an incubator large enough for 60,000 eggs. In Egypt they do the trick in brick ovens which are heated for ten days and then require no more attention.

While digging the foundations for a hospital to be built at Neuchatel, workmen lately discovered a beautiful vault constructed of bronze, which Swiss scientists state was built 600 years before the birth of Jesus Christ. In the tomb was the skeleton of a young woman, whose bones were still in a natural position. On the wrists were six bracelets, four in bronze and two in lignite, and near the skeleton was a little bronze bell.

Is disease spreading from public laundries? The question has been undergoing debate in New York for some time. A physician suggests that all possibility of danger may be averted by thoroughly moistening the contents of packages with a disinfectant solution as soon as they arrive in the laundry. This practice, he says, is followed in England. There is a general conviction among men in the laundry business that thorough disinfection results from the subjection of the articles to the process of steaming and washing.

A New York husband, sued for divorce, characterizes his wife's mother as like to one of the knitting women of the French guillotine, says that Scrooge was an angel of light compared to her father, that the members of her family collectively are worshippers of the golden calf and that his wife herself is a reincarnation of Judas Iscariot. One can easily imagine what kind of a grand, sweet song marriage was in that happy home.

The Prince of Wales has shocked expectation and precedent by making a prolonged stay in Paris, as many other princes have done, but without furnishing a scrap of the interesting copy usually accompanying princely visits.

NOT GUILTY OF SHOOTING GRACE

Nearly Collapses When the Verdict is Reached.

WAS GENERALLY EXPECTED.

"God Bless You, Gentlemen!" Was Her Exclamation As She Heard the Announcement That She Was Free.

Atlanta, Ga.—"God bless you, gentlemen," cried Mrs. Daisy Ulrich Opie Grace when the jury found her not guilty of the charge of shooting her husband. There was a note of hysteria in Mrs. Grace's voice and she was on the verge of a collapse, but her lawyers patted her on the shoulder and urged her to restrain herself and she soon became calm. Then the crowd in court cheered the verdict and surged about Mrs. Grace, many of the women weeping.

At last the deadly witeness of Mrs. Grace's face was relieved by a flush and she began to smile. Then she approached each of the 12 jurors and gave them thanks.

"I felt like kissing and hugging you all," she said. "I trusted you all the time. I know you would not believe what they said about me." Followed by a cheering throng, Mrs. Grace soon left the courtroom and went to the offices of her attorneys. There she received a telegram from her sister in Philadelphia to the effect that Mrs. Grace's little blind son is ill.

The verdict was generally expected. It was conceded that the state failed to sustain the charge that Mrs. Grace had drugged and shot her husband and locked him in to die in order to get $25,000 insurance on his life.

Mrs. Grace's statement had a tremendous effect on the jury, and its main statements were generally credited, and especially those relating to the large sums she had lavished on Grace and his attentions to other women.

SENATE WARNS ALL NATIONS.

Lodge Resolution Passed In Secret Session By Members.

Washington.—The United States Senate issued a warning to the nations of the world against encroachment upon the continents of North and South America. The United States will not see "without grave concern," said the Senate, any suitable naval or military site pass into control of a foreign corporation, when such possession "might threaten the communication or the safety of the United States."

So vital were the issues discussed in the Lodge resolution, which set forth the policy of the United States as to points situated like Magdalena Bay, in Lower California, that the doors of the Senate were closed for three hours while the resolution was debated in secret session.

It finally passed with only four votes against it. Notwithstanding the comparative unanimity of the Senate upon the note of warning, it is understood the measure did not have the official indorsement of the administration.

$100,000 TO REFUGEES.

Senate Passes Resolution For the Destitute Americans.

Washington.—The destitution of American refugees from Mexico, now quartered at El Paso, resulted in the passage by the Senate of a resolution authorizing the War Department to spend $100,000 in transporting them to such points in the United States as they wish to reach. The measure was presented by Senator Bailey and passed after a brief debate. It will need the approval of the House and the President before the appropriation becomes available. Senator Bailey declares the refugees were in dire need and in most cases were unable to proceed beyond that city. Transportation would be provided, under the resolution, only for those who are receiving some aid in "shelter or sustenance" from the government at El Paso.

EXONERATES ISMAY TITANIC REPORT

Excessive Speed is Blamed for the Disaster.

DISCIPLINE FOUND GOOD.

Say Captain Lord Should Have Helped—Board Of Trade Scored For Not Changing Rules Since 1894.

London.—Excessive speed is held responsible for the Titanic disaster in the report of the British commission of inquiry which was presented in Scottish Drill Hall Tuesday. J. Bruce Ismay, managing director of the White Star Line, is absolved from blame for jumping into a lifeboat and saving his life while hundreds of other passengers went to their doom. There is no censure of the conduct of Captain Smith, of the lost liner, in the report. In driving his ship at high speed through the ice region he was merely following the general custom of shipmasters, the report states.

Adverse criticism is visited upon Captain Lord, of the Leyland liner California, which might have saved many if not all of the lives that were lost, the commission says. Lord Mersey presided when the committee was called to order.

"The loss of the Titanic was due to a collision with an iceberg brought about by the excessive speed at which the ship was navigated," the report says, "but the ship was effectively officered and was supplied with the proper charts."

COW ATE JEWELRY.

The Missing Baubles Found When Bossy Is Slaughtered.

It was found Tuesday in the stomach of a cow, which was sent to an abattoir here from a farm eight miles from Joliet. No clue has been found to trace the journey of the jewelry from the Schultez home to the farm. The articles found in the stomach of the animal were two brooches, one diamond ring, a bracelet and a woman's gold watch. They were returned to Miss Schultez.

Pinchot was dragged 60 feet, but despite his bruises he made an address here later.

$2,400,000 A YEAR GRAFT TO POLICE

New York District Attorney Learns of Systems.

SENSATIONAL EXPOSURES.

Prosecution Said To Have Names Of Three Others Besides Lieut. Becker Who Were Distributing Centers.

New York.—Sworn statements tending to show that the annual graft collected by high police officials in New York city from gambling-houses and other illegal resorts has amounted within the last year to $2,400,000, are in the hands of District Attorney Whitman. The statements were made to the District Attorney Tuesday by Bald Jack Rose, self-accused graft collector for Police Lieutenant Charles Becker, head of the Strong Arm Squad, who began his second day of incarceration in the Tombs prison as an alleged instigator of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler.

This annual yield of $2,400,000 protection money was equally divided, according to the story told by Rose, among four high officials of the police department, one of them being Becker, and from other evidence the District Attorney has collected he has reason to suspect that each $600,000 was further distributed. In other words, there were four separate systems or bureaus of graft collection, each headed by a high police official.

Mr. Whitman, it was learned, has the names of the other three police officials whom Rose has named, and his further efforts in this now most sensational "police exposure" that New York has ever seen will be directed toward strengthening the evidence which points against them. One of the officials named, it was learned, holds a position at headquarters and is in a direct sense a civilian employe.

The name of a former prominent city official has been brought to the attention of the district attorney as having been closely connected with the "graft system," but it was learned that the evidence thus far obtained against him is not of a tangible nature. The evidence, however, is being closely followed by the detectives in the employ of the district attorney.

It also became known that if Lieutenant Becker will tell all he knows, not only in respect to his own alleged complicity in the murder, but will unfold the inner workings of the graft system, insofar as it may involve the "men higher up," no effort will be made to enforce the extreme penalty of the crime of which he now stands accused—the murder of Rosenthal—but he will be granted leniency on that condition only.

The alleged fact of the $2,400,000 graft fund was told to him by Becker, Rose said in a sworn statement. Becker, he said, told him that he handled $600,000 a year and that equal amounts were handled by three other officials. This, he said, came in collections from gambling houses, pool rooms, houses of ill repute and the like.

Vincent, wife of the president of the Minnesota University, will chaperone the camping party, consisting of young people.

MANY PERSONS DIE IN WRECK

Twice That Number Injured in Crash.

TRAINS MEET HEAD-ON.

Both Are Well Filled—Lighter Train Split Asunder and Wreckage Begins To Burn.

Rio Janeiro, Brazil.—At least 100 persons were killed and twice that number injured in a collision between two suburban passenger trains on the Central Brazilian Railroad. A special train bearing physicians, nurses and a complete field hospital outfit was immediately rushed to the scene.

The trains were both filled with passengers, and through some mistake in signals met head-on while rounding a curve. The heavier of the two trains plowed half way through the other, and almost immediately the wreckage caught fire.

Many of the injured will die, and railroad officials here express the fear that it will prove the worst railroad disaster Brazil has ever suffered.

The police arrested the surviving members of the crews of two trains. Carelessness is charged.

WANTS AN AERIAL FLEET.

Representative Sharp Points Out Advantages Of Airships In War.

Washington.—Representative Sharp, of Ohio, told the House that progress of aviation had virtually made helpless the fleets and armies of the world, and urged the appropriation of a liberal sum to establish an aerial fleet for the protection of the United States. Had France and Germany gone to war recently over the Moroccan question, Mr. Sharp contended, France would have won a prompt victory by reason of her superiority in the air.

SYNOPSIS.

The scene at the opening of the story is laid in the library of an old worn-out southern plantation, known as the Barony. The place is to be sold, and its history and that of the owners, the Quintards, is the subject of discussion by Jonathan Crenshaw, a business man, a stranger known as Bladen, and Bob Yancy, a farmer, when Hannibal Wayne Hazard, a mysterious child of the old southern family, makes his appearance. Captain Murrell, a friend of the Quintards, appears and asks questions about the Barony. Trouble at Scratch Hill, when Hannibal is kidnaped by Dave Blount, Captain Murrell's agent. Yancy overtakes Blount, gives him a thrashing and secures the boy. Yancy appears before Squire Balaam, and is discharged with costs for the plaintiff. Betty Malroy, a friend of the Ferrises, has an encounter with Captain Murrell, who forces his attentions on her, and is rescued by Bruce Carrington. Betty sets out for her Tennessee home. Carrington takes the same stage. Yancy and Hannibal disappear, with Murrell on their trail. Hannibal arrives at the home of Judge Slocum Price. The Judge recognizes in the boy, the grandson of an old time friend. Murrell arrives at Judge's home. Cavendish family on raft rescue Yancy, who is apparently dead. Price breaks jail.

"We don't want to get there too early," explained the judge, as they quitted the cabin. "We want to miss the work, but be on hand for the celebration."

"I suppose we may confidently look to you to favor us with a few eloquent words?" said Mr. Mahaffy. the judge.

"And why not, Solomon?" asked The opportunity he craved was not denied him. The crowd was like most southwestern crowds of the period, and no sooner did the judge appear than there were clamorous demands for a speech. He cast a glance of triumph at Mahaffy, and nimbly mounted a convenient stump. He extolled the climate of middle Tennessee, the unsurpassed fertility of the soil; he touched on the future that awaited Pleasantville; he apostrophized the jail.

Presently the crowd drifted away in the direction of the tavern. Hannibal meantime had gone down to the river. He haunted its banks as though he expected to see his Uncle Bob appear any moment. The judge and Mahaffy had mingled with the others in the hope of free drinks, but in this hope there lurked the germ of a bitter disappointment. After a period of mental anguish Mahaffy parted with his last stray coin, and while his flask was being filled the judge indulged in certain winsome gallantries with the fat landlady.

"La, Judge Price, how you do run on!" she said with a coquettish toss of her curls.

"That's the charm of you, ma'am," said the judge. He leaned across the bar and, sinking his voice to a husky whisper, asked: "Would it be perfectly convenient for you to extend me a limited credit?"

"Now, Judge Price, you know a heap better than to ask me that!" she answered, shaking her head.

"No offense, ma'am," said the judge, hiding his disappointment, and with Mahaffy he quitted the bar.

The sudden noisy clamor of many voices, high-pitched and excited, floated out to them under the hot sky. "I wonder—" began the judge, and paused as he saw the crowd stream into the road before the tavern. Then a cloud of dust enveloped it, a cloud of dust that came from the tramping of many pairs of feet, and that swept toward them, thick and impenetrable, and no higher than a tall man's head in the lifeless air. "I wonder if we missed anything?" continued the judge, finishing what he had started to say.

The score or more of men were quite near, and the judge and Mahaffy made out the tall figure of the sheriff in the lead. And then the crowd, very excited, very dusty, very noisy and very hot, flowed into the judge's front yard. For a brief moment that gentleman fancied Pleasantville had awakened to a fitting sense of its obligation to him and that it was about to make amends for its churlish lack of hospitality. He rose from his chair, and with a splendid florid gesture, swept off his hat.

"It's the pussy fellow!" cried a voice.

"Oh, shut up—don't you think I know him?" retorted the sheriff tartly.

"Gentlemen—" began the judge blandly.

"Get the well-rope!"

The judge was rather at loss properly to interpret these varied remarks. He was not long left in doubt. The sheriff steped to his side and dropped a heavy hand on his shoulder.

"Mr. Slocum Price, or whatever your name is, your little game is up!"

"Ain't he bold?" it was the woman's voice this time, and the fat landlady, her curls awry and her plump breast heaving tumultuously, gained a place in the forefront of the crowd

"Dear madam, this is an unexpected pleasure!" said the judge, with his hand upon his heart.

"I Want My Money!" Shrieked the Landlady.

"I want my money!" shrieked the landlady. "Good money—not this worthless trash!" she shook a bill under his nose. The judge recognized it as the one of which he had despoiled Hannibal.

"You have been catched passing counterfeit," said the sheriff. A light broke on the judge, a light that stunned and dazzled.

"I can explain—"

"Speak to them, Solomon—you know how I came by the money!" cried the judge, clutching his friend by the arm. Mahaffy opened his thin lips, but the crowd drowned his voice in a roar.

A tall fellow shook a long finger under Mahaffy's nose.

"You scoot!"

Mr. Mahaffy seemed to hesitate. Some one gave him a shove and he staggered forward a step. Before he could recover himself the shove was repeated.

"Lope on out of here!" yelled the tall fellow. Mahaffy was hurried toward the road. Twenty men were in chase behind him. Then the woods closed about him. His long legs, working tirelessly, carried him over fallen logs and through tangled thickets, the voices behind him growing more and more distant as he ran.

CHAPTER IX.

The Family on the Raft.

That would unquestionably have been the end of Bob Yancy when he was shot out into the muddy waters of the Elk river, had not Mr. Richard Keppel Cavendish, variously known as Long-Legged Dick, and Chills-and-Fever Cavendish, of Lincoln county, in the state of Tennessee, some months previously and after unprecedented mental effort on his part, decided that Lincoln county was no place for him.

Mr. Cavendish's paternal grandparent had drifted down the Holston and Tennessee; and Mr. Cavendish's father, in his son's youth, had poled up the Elk. Mr. Cavendish now determined to float down the Elk to its juncture with the Tennessee, down the Tennessee to the Ohio, and if need be, down the Ohio to the Mississippi, until he found some spot exactly suited to his taste.

With this end in view he had toiled through the late winter and early spring, building himself a raft on which to transport his few belongings and his numerous family.

Thus it happened that as Murrell and Slosson were dragging Yancy down the lane, Cavendish was just rounding a bend in the Elk, a quarter of a mile distant. Leaning loosely against the long handle of his sweep, he was watching the lane of bright water that ran between the black shadows cast by the trees on either bank.

He heard a dull splash, and caught sight of some object in the eddy that swept alongside. Mr. Cavendish promptly detached himself from the handle of the sweep and ran to the edge of the raft.

It was a face, livid and blood-streaked. Dropping on his knees he reached out a pair of long arms and made a dexterous grab, and his fingers closed on the collar of Yancy's shirt. He drew Yancy close alongside, and pulled him clear of the water. Mr. Cavendish began a hurried examination of the still figure. "There's a little life here—not much. Polly!" he called.

This brought Mrs. Cavendish from one of the two cabins that occupied the center of the raft. When she caught sight of Yancy she uttered a shriek.

Her cry had aroused the other denizens of the raft. Six little Cavendishes, each draped in a single garment, tumbled forth from their shelter.

"I reckon we'd better lift him on to one of the beds—get his wet clothes off and wrap him up warm," said Polly.

"Oh, put him in our bed!" cried all the little Cavendishes.

And Yancy was borne into the smaller of the two shanties, where presently his bandaged head rested on the long pillow. Then his wet clothes were hung up to dry along with the family wash.

* * * * * * * * *

The sheriff had brought the judge's supper. He reported that the crowd was dispersing, and that on the whole public sentiment was not particularly hostile; indeed, he went so far as to say there existed a strong undercurrent of satisfaction that the jail should have so speedily justified itself.

Presently the sheriff went his way into the dusk of the evening, and night came swiftly to fellowship the judge's fears. A single moonbeam found its way into the place, making a thin rift in the darkness. The judge sat down on the three-legged stool, which, with a shake-down bed, furnished the jail.

Where was Solomon Mahaffy, and where Hannibal? He felt that Mahaffy could fend for himself, but he experienced a moment of genuine concern when he thought of the child.

Then—there was a scarcely audible rustle on the margin of the woods, a dry branch snapped loudly. Next a stealthy step sounded in the clearing. The judge had an agonized vision of regulators and lynchers. The cautious steps continued to approach. A whisper stole into the jail.

"Are you awake, Price?" It was Mahaffy who spoke.

"God bless you, Solomon Mahaffy!" cried the judge unsteadily.

"I've got the boy—he's with me," said Mahaffy.

"God bless you both!" repeated the judge brokenly. "Take care of him, Solomon. I feel better now, knowing he's in good hands."

"Please, judge—" it was Hannibal.

"Yes, dear lad?"

"I'm mighty sorry that ten dollars I loaned you was bad—but you don't need ever to pay it back! It were Captain Murrell gave it to me."

"I consecrate myself to his destruction! Judge Slocum Price cannot be humiliated with impunity!"

"I should think you would save your wind, Price, until you'd waddled out of danger!" Mahaffy spoke gruffly.

"How are you going to get me out of this, Solomon—for I suppose you are here to break jail for me," said the judge.

"Well, Price, I guess all we can do is to go back to town and see if I can get into my cabin—I've got an old saw there. If I can find it, I can come again tomorrow night and cut away one of the logs, or the cleats of the door."

"In heaven's name, do that tonight, Solomon!" implored the judge. "Why procrastinate?"

"Price, there's a pack of dogs in this neighborhood, and we must have a full night to move in, or they'll pull us down before we've gone ten miles!"

"You're right, Solomon; I'd forgotten the dogs."

Mahaffy closed and fastened the shutters, then he and Hannibal stole across the clearing and entered the woods. The judge went to bed. He was aroused by the arrival of his breakfast, which the sheriff brought about eight o'clock.

"Well, if I was in your boots I couldn't sleep like you!" remarked that official admiringly. "But I reckon, sir, this ain't the first time the penitentiary has stared you in the face."

It was nearing the noon hour when the judge's solitude was again invaded. He first heard the distant murmur of voices on the road and passed an uneasy and restless ten minutes, with his eye to a crack in the door. He was soothed and reassured, however, when at last he caught sight of the sheriff.

"Well, judge, I got company for you," cried the sheriff cheerfully, as he threw open the door. "A hoss-thief!"

He pushed into the building a man, hatless and coatless, with a pair of pale villainous eyes and a tobacco-stained chin. The judge viewed the newcomer with disfavor. As for the horse-thief, he gave his companion in misery a coldly critical stare, seated himself on the stool, and with quite a fierce air devoted all his energy to mastication. He neither altered his position nor changed his expression until he and the judge were alone, then, catching the judge's eye, he made what seemed a casual movement with his hand, the three fingers raised; but to the judge this clearly was without significance, and the horse-thief manifested no further interest where he was concerned. He did not even condescend to answer the one or two civil remarks the judge addressed to him.

As the long afternoon more itself away, the judge lived through the many stages of doubt and uncertainty, for suppose anything had happened to Mahaffy!

Standing before the window, the judge watched the last vestige of light fade from the sky and the stars appear. Would Mahaffy come? The suspense was intolerable. Suddenly out of the silence sounded a long-drawn whistle. Three times it was repeated. The horse-thief leaped to his feet.

"Neighbor, that means me!" he cried.

The moon was rising now, and by its light the judge saw a number of horsemen appear on the edge of the woods. They entered the clearing, picking their way among the stumps without haste or confusion. When quite close, five of the band dismounted; the rest continued on about the jail or cantered off toward the road.

"Look out inside, there!" cried a voice, and a log was dashed against the door; once—twice—it rose and fell on the clapboards, and under those mighty thuds grew up a wide gap through which the moonlight streamed splendidly. The horse-thief stepped between the dangling cleats and vanished.

The judge tossed away the stool. He understood now. With a confident, not to say jaunty step, the judge emerged from the jail.

"Your servant, gentlemen!" he said, lifting his hat.

"Git!" said one of the men briefly, and the judge moved nimbly away toward the woods.

Now to find Solomon and the boy, and then to put the miles between himself and Pleasantville with all diligence. As he thought this, almost at his elbow Mahaffy and Hannibal rose from behind a fallen log. The Yankee motioned for silence and pointed west.

1913 AUTO TAGS WILL BE GREEN

Highway Commissioner Orders 75,000 for Coming Year.

TO COMMENCE ISSUE EARLY

Many Applications for License Received Before New Year Arrives—30,000 Orders Were Filed Before Close of 1911.

(Special Harrisburg Correspondence.)

Harrisburg.—The automobile tags for 1913 of this State will be dark olive green with white figures and the keystone in soft metal. This color has been decided upon by Highway Commissioner E. M. Bigelow, who is in charge of the automobile registration of the State, and bids will be asked at once for furnishing 75,000 to the State. This year the tags have been mahogany with white letters and in other years have been yellow with black letters, red with white letters and dark blue. The green tags will be something like those used by New York this year, but the style of the Pennsylvania tag is different from that of New York. An innovation by Mr. Bigelow is the order that the contractors bid to supply the tags by November 1. This is considerably earlier than ever before and is due to the fact that for weeks before the close of the year the department has many applications for new tags for the coming year, and it is planned to get them out ahead. Last year over 30,000 applications were made before the close of 1911, and the work had to go on day and night for the latter part of December and early part of January. This year a start will be made in November and there will be no congestion at the close of the year. The new tags will not be worth anything until January 1, 1913, and it will not matter how early they are bought. This year 60,000 tags were ordered. Mr. Bigelow will order 75,000 for 1913.

Playgrounds Are Popular.

With the last couple of years this city has taken marvelous strides forward in developing its playground system and one of the important contributing causes is undoubtedly the class of youthful playground assistant instructors that make up the Park Commission's staff. It's worth while to pay a visit to the Park Commission offices when the instructors are holding their weekly conferences with Playground Supervisors J. K. Staples and Miss Jessie C. Beidleman. The young men and women are the pick of the crack athletes of both sexes of the high schools generally. Among the staff of boys, for instance, are the captains of the high school football elevens and other stars in baseball, basketball and track athletics; among the girls are the pretty champions in tennis, in basketball and other branches of sport.

Deer Like Sanitarium.

Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, State Health Commissioner, returned from a visit to the State Tuberculosis Sanitarium at Mount Alto. On the road down from the sanitarium to the station Mr. Dixon was confronted by three deer, a doe and two well-grown fawns. The wild animals stood and watched the approach of the team until quite close, when they moved off leisurely into the woods. The reservation on which the sanitarium is located is full of deer, and they are very tame, frequently going to the houses to get salt and other things to eat. Some time ago a herd of twelve were seen and last spring a bunch of seventeen that had been after salt at the cookhouse stood still long enough to be photographed. It is forbidden to kill deer on the reservation, but in the woods surrounding they are plentiful, and in season hunters have fine sport.

Lehigh Resources Grow.

A marked increase in the resources of Lehigh County is noted in the annual report by the commissioners to the Department of Imperial Affairs. During the last decade the money on interest has tripled. Totals show that Lehigh taxables number 47,178. The value of real estate in the county is placed at $69,634,850, the amount of exempted property $5,949,415, and the value of real estate taxable $63,685,465. The amount of money on interest in the county amounts to $18,559,859, of which sum Allentown has $11,691,752; the borough, $3,116,618, and the townships $5,152,089. Allentown's share to be paid to the county tax is $46,766.99, the borough's $12,464.07, and the townships $16,608.34, a total of $75,839.40. The debt of the county is placed at $325,000.

Ice Cream Decision.

"The decision of Judge Walling that the pure ice cream act is constitutional is exactly what we have been looking for and it will enable us to go right ahead with enforcement of the law," says Dairy and Food Commissioner James Foust. "The case decided by the Judge was watched by big interests and involved what they considered to be a conflict with the pure food act of 1909. Had the State lost it would have put us to much inconvenience, but now we will be able to go right ahead."

THE CENTRE REPORTER.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 8 1912

LOCALS

James P. Gregg, of Tyrone, school teacher and school book man, was in town on Friday.

Fred Stover, who had been at Berea, Ohio, for some months, is home, and will remain until fall.

The McClellan-Fleisher families will hold a reunion in the Tussey Sink grove, Potter township, on Thursday, 15th inst.

Miss Flo Duck, after visiting her father, M. B. Duck, and brothers at Spring Mills, returned to New York. She was accompanied by her niece, Miss Ethel Hettinger.

Miss Nellie Smith, daughter of Register J. Frank Smith, is back from a visit of two weeks at Bellwood, where she was the guest of Miss Ethel Sechrist, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Sechrist, formerly of Centre Hall.

Next we country folk will want to get into the habit of going to the cities in the summer to keep warm. Mercury was down as low as forty-three degrees during the past week—the first week in August—and that is enough to make one consider doing desperate things.

Monday morning a force of workmen, with Aaron Thomas as superintendent, began to prepare to move the small dwelling house to the rear of the lot on which the Reporter's new building will be erected, and now the site is clear and excavating is being done for the basement.

Rev. S. A. Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Geary and daughter Agnes, of Centre Hall, attended the Bible Conference and campmeeting at Central Oak Height, at West Milton. Mrs. Geary and daughter were there for a week or more, while the gentlemen attended the gathering but for a few days.

Among the strangers entertained in Centre Hall during the past week was J. D. Mellinger, of Philadelphia, who was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Moore. Mr. Mellinger is an old friend of the family, their acquaintance having been formed when both were residents of the City of Brotherly Love. He is superintendent of the carpet department at Wanamaker's, a position of great responsibility.

School directors are being warned against paying teachers $50 00 unless they have a "certificate of proficiency" from a county superintendent in addition to the state, permanent or professional certificate they may hold. The state will pay back to the districts only on the conditions that teachers hold this certificate of proficiency. Of course, boards can pay to whom they like any sum, but if the rebate is wanted the above provision must be complied with.

Messrs. T. M. Gramley, R. U. Moyer, Spring Mills; P. F. Auman, John D. Wagner, Georges Valley; William F. Rishel, Harry Frankenberger, Farmers Mills; William F. Rockey, Tusseyville; H.W. Frantz H. G. Strohmeier, S. W. Smith, Centre Hall, on Monday evening met at the Lutheran parsonage to fix a place and date for a picnic to be held by the various Sunday Schools in the Centre Hall Lutheran charge. Georges Valley was named as the place, and Thursday, 22nd inst., the time for holding same. An official notice appears elsewhere in this issue.

John M. Luse, who for several years has been unable to do manual labor, on account of a sore limb, was among the Reporter's callers on Friday and and had his name placed on the paper's subscription list. Enforced idleness is not relished by Mr. Luse, who prior to his sickness which terminated in a chronic sore, was always employed and never knew what idleness meant. He is offering for sale a number of useful articles, and those on whom he calls will be doing a good turn if they make a purchase. He would widely prefer to follow his trade, that of a carpenter, both because it would be more profitable and agreeable, but physical weakness prevents him from doing so.

Mrs. Walter Thompson, of Lewistown, and Mrs. Charles Rice, of Reedsville, who are stopping at the Centre Hall hotel with their children, on Sunday were visited by their husbands and these friends: Reed Thompson, of Milroy; Andy M. Thompson, Associate Judge Roller McCoy, James McCoy, clerk in the Citizens National Bank, Miss Adelaide McCoy, of Lewistown; Mr. and Mrs. George Thompson, Ned Thompson, Milroy; Mrs. Homer Brayton, Pueblo, Colorado, and a friend from Philadelphia. The Thompsons, excepting the Milroy merchant, are members of the firm of Thompson Brothers, who conduct the Thompson Brothers Mill at Milroy and the Lewistown Knitting Mill, at Lewistown. Mr. Rice is the senior member of the mercantile firm of Rice Brothers, at Reedsville, and all of them are engaged in prosperous business ventures.

Mr. W. S. Gunsalus, a farmer living near Fleming, Pa., says he has used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in his family for fourteen years, and that he has found it to be an excellent remedy, and takes pleasure in recommending it. For sale by all dealers.

Keller Farm House Afire.

The farm house owned and occupied by David K. Keller and family, east of Centre Hall, narrowly escaped being consumed by fire on Friday morning. The first intimation that anything was wrong was when Mr. Keller came down stairs about five o'clock. The fire was in the kitchen, and it was so hot that Mr. Keller had difficulty in entering it, but being wide awake and broad day light he took advantage of the situation and by skillful management the flames were extinguished by him and his helpers before the they could spread after getting air.

The flames had burned seventy-five to one hundred square feet of the kitchen floor, near the stove and chimney place, the stove having toppled over.

Just how the fire originated is a mystery to Mr. Keller. There had not been fire in the stove later than five o'clock the evening before, and the family is sure the fire could not have come from it. Mr. Keller and one of his sons each lighted an oil lamp on retiring, and it is surmised that a spark from one of the matches fell to the floor unobserved, and after smouldering struck a flame.

Mr. Keller is secretary of the Grange fire insurance company, and, of course, carried insurance in that company. While the loss is light, it was a narrow escape from being one of large proportions.

Lutheran S. S. Picnic.

The Sunday-schools of the Centre Hall Lutheran charge will hold a basket picnic on Thursday, 22nd inst., in the grove at the Georges Valley church. All Lutherans in the charge and all others who care to spend a day in the woods in picnic style are invited to attend. No invitation other than this will be extended.

Rank Told by the Stars and Seniority by the Colors.

In old sea stories one occasionally comes upon the term admiral of the blue, red or white. In bygone days the color of an admiral's flag proclaimed his rank. Now it denotes his seniority Hence it comes about that an admiral must carry three personal flags in his locker.

There are three grades of admiral—admiral, vice admiral and rear admiral. At one time commodore made a kind of half admiral, but that grade has now been abolished.

The rank of an admiral is made plain to all seafaring persons by the number of stars on the flag hoisted at his foremast head. Thus four stars show an admiral, three a vice admiral and two a rear admiral. This is simple enough, but the harassing question arose, What if two admirals, two vice admirals or two rear admirals should happen to sail into port, each with a squadron? What, indeed, if three admirals, and so forth, should appear on the same scene? How could any one distinguish between them? Some innocent governor or mayor returning a visit of courtesy might call upon the junior first, and that would be a bad blunder.

To obviate such a mischance it is now the custom for admirals to mark their seniority by the color of their flags. Thus if three rear admirals happen into a port the senior flies a blue flag with two stars, the second a red flag with two stars and the junior a white flag with the same constellation. If the senior should leave port first the second promptly hoists his blue flag and the junior the red. Then if the second admiral steamed away the junior would hoist the blue flag for all the personal satisfaction there was in it.

But here a serious question comes up. Suppose in the meantime a fourth rear admiral appeared on the scene. Then, as a naval authority explains, the situation for the respective flag lieutenants would become complicated. There would be two rear admirals of the white, one senior to the other, yet, so far as naval etiquette goes, indistinguishable in a flag sense even to an able seaman.

Of course this is not very likely to happen except where the fleets of several nations gather. Then there would be a tremendous scramble to hunt up dates of promotion, because the flag lieutenant who carried his admiral off to call upon a junior would thereafter be an unhappy flag lieutenant.—Youth's Companion.

Blake's Invisible Model.

William Blake, the artist and poet, moved continually in a company of angels and patriarchs. J. F. Nisbet in his "Insanity of Genius" recalls the story of a friend of Cunningham who once called on Blake and found him sitting, pencil in hand, and drawing a portrait with all the seeming anxiety of a man who is conscious of having a fastidious sitter. He looked and drew, and drew and looked, yet no living soul was visible. "Disturb me not," said Blake in a whisper. "I have some one sitting to me." "Sitting to you!" exclaimed the astonished visitor. "Where is he? I see no one." "But I see him," answered Blake haughtily. "There he is. His name is Lot. You may read of him in the Scriptures. He is sitting for his portrait."

Mark Twain and the Ministry.

Orion Clemens thought of the ministry, an ambition which his brother Sam shared with him for a time. Every mischievous boy has it, sooner or later—though not all for the same reasons.

"It was the most earnest ambition I ever had," Mark Twain once remarked thoughtfully. "Not that I ever really wanted to be a preacher, but because it never occurred to me that a preacher could be damned. It looked like a safe job."—Albert Bigelow Paine in Harper's Magazine.

Old Wall Street.

Wall street in the days when Washington was the first president of the United States, when Alexander Hamilton and Aaron Burr were rivals at the bar, was perhaps the most popular and populous thoroughfare in New York. It was so named because it followed the line of the city's first defensive stockade or "wall," and throughout its length were enacted many scenes that are part of the nation's larger history. —Christian Herald.

Didn't Get Even the Brick.

"Did that man hand you a gold brick?"

"I should say not," answered the amateur financier. "He sold me an interest in the gold brick on credit and took a mortgage on that, together with everything else I owned. Then he called the loan and foreclosed the mortgage and took possession of the gold brick, along with the rest."—

The Coughs of Children

They may not cough today, but what about tomorrow? Better be prepared for it when it comes. Ask your doctor about keeping Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in the house. Then when the hard cold or cough first appears you have a doctor's medicine at hand. This cough medicine is especially good for children. No anodynes. No alcohol.

Many a child is called dull and stupid when the whole trouble is due to a lazy liver. We firmly believe your own doctor will tell you that an occasional dose of Ayer's Pills, sugar-coated, will do such children a great deal of good. Ask him.
